30	3	45	$41\frac{1}{4}$	Since Payments have to be made in this office out of the funds supplied from time to time by the Rail Commissioner, greater scrutiny and extra work are involved so a separate hand is necessary for the additional work. He will also assist the accountant. As one and the same man is now doing Accounts and correspondence it is found that both are not efficiently done. It will be worse when the new system is brought into force A separate efficient hand is wanted to be in charge of the correspondence
